The Treasure Valley’s largest irrigation district has named Michael Comeskey as its new Secretary Treasurer, officials with the Nampa & Meridian Irrigation District announced today. He will also serve as Secretary to the Board in his new position.

Comeskey comes to NMID from a position as Water Renewal Capital Improvement Program Manager with the City of Boise Public Works Department, where he managed utility strategic planning and capital projects. It marks the first time in 67 years that the District has named anyone other than a NMID employee to the Secretary/Treasurer position.

“I am honored to join the NMID team during this very dynamic time in the Treasure Valley,” said Comeskey. “Water is the key to our quality of life and the District has a long and successful history of delivering water to the communities we serve.”

He will be formally appointed to the Secretary Treasurer post by the NMID Board of Directors at its meeting set for 9 a.m. on August 4 at the NMID offices in Nampa.

Comeskey holds a Master of Business Administration from Boise State University and a Bachelor of Science in Biology from Washington State University. He grew up in Washington state and has lived in the Treasure Valley for 13 years. He is married with two sons, who are 10 and 12.

Comeskey replaces Daren Coon who is retiring after 44 years with the District. Coon will remain with the District through the end of the year serving as an advisor to his successor and the NMID Board of Directors.
