About 6,700 Treasure Valley residents with property inside the Nampa & Meridian Irrigation District must make full payment of their 2019 irrigation taxes by June 20th to avoid triggering legal action that could result in a lien being established against the property, NMID officials cautioned today.

“Notices about the June 20 payment deadline were mailed to the residents last month. If the tax bill is not paid it will result in their property being listed as delinquent. That then triggers a mandatory process that requires a lien be established against the property. If the tax bill remains unpaid for three years, the law requires that tax deed action be taken against the property which can potentially result in the property being sold at auction to satisfy the back taxes,” advised Daren Coon, NMID Secretary Treasurer.

The District mailed irrigation tax assessment notices to more than 42,000 property owners last October. If the tax bill is not paid on time then a 2 percent penalty and interest at an annual rate of 12 percent will be added to the 2019 tax bill.

NMID property owners can pay online by using NMID’s secure online bill payment option on the District website – www.nmid.org. However, online payments must be made prior to 5 p.m. on June 20 and only a second half 2019 payment can be made, NMID officials said.

Idaho law gives people who own property inside the NMID boundaries the choice of either paying the tax assessment in full or in two payments – December and June. June 20th is the second half payment deadline for those residents who chose to make two payments or who made no payment at all.

Residents can also check to see if they are delinquent on their NMID tax assessments by visiting the District’s web site: www.nmid.org. The web site contains a listing of property owners and a legal description of the parcel of land that are delinquent more than one full year in paying their NMID taxes.

People with questions about their assessment payment or the Nampa & Meridian Irrigation District should call the District office at (208) 466-7861.

The Nampa & Meridian Irrigation District is a water storage, conveyance and distribution system founded in 1904. The District supplies irrigation water to some 69,000 acres of farmland, residential and commercial lands including pressurized irrigation for more than 17,000 individual parcels of land in Ada and Canyon counties.
