June 20th is the date by which about 4,000 Treasure Valley residents who own property inside the Nampa & Meridian Irrigation District must make full payment of their 2012 irrigation taxes to avoid triggering legal action that could result in a lien being established against the property, NMID officials said today.

Nonpayment means the property will be listed as delinquent. That triggers a mandatory process that first requires that a lien be established against the property. Then, if the tax bill remains unpaid for three years, the law requires that tax deed action be taken against the property. That can potentially result in the property being sold at auction to satisfy the back taxes.

“We mailed payment notices to the listed owners of the properties on May 2, 2013 telling them it is very important that they have their 2012 irrigation tax assessments paid in full by June 20. Idaho law gives people who own property inside our District the choice of either paying the tax assessment in full or in two payments – December and June. June 20th is the second half payment deadline for those residents who chose to make two payments,” said Daren Coon, NMID Secretary Treasurer.

The District mailed irrigation tax assessment notices to more than 37, 000 property owners last October. NMID officials stress that individuals who own property inside the District but who did not receive a tax levy notice should contact the District right away at 466-7861.

Residents can check to see whether they are delinquent on their 2012 NMID tax assessments by visiting the District’s web site: www.nmid.org. The web site contains a listing of the names of property owners and a legal description of the parcel of land that are delinquent more than one full year in NMID taxes.

The taxes pay for operation and maintenance of the canals, laterals, drains and dams that make up the District's water delivery system. Levies also are assessed against individual subdivision parcels using pressurized irrigation systems in subdivisions around the valley.

People with questions about their assessment payment or the Nampa & Meridian Irrigation District should call the District office at 466-7861.

The Nampa & Meridian Irrigation District is a water storage, conveyance and distribution system founded in 1904. The District supplies irrigation water to some 69,000 acres of farmland, residential and commercial lands including pressurized irrigation for more than 15,000 individual parcels of land in Ada and Canyon counties.
