Four properties in Ada and Canyon Counties with a total assessed value of more than $369,000 are set to be sold at auction next Tuesday (August 16) for just $3,739 because their owners have failed to pay irrigation taxes for the past three years, officials with the Nampa & Meridian Irrigation District announced today.

NMID is currently accepting written bids for the four properties. The minimum bid is the amount of irrigation taxes and expenses related to the delinquency owing to the District. In one instance that means a property with an assessed value of $156,700 could be sold for just $356.53 in unpaid taxes.

Two of the properties are in Ada County – one in Boise and one in Meridian. The other two are both in Nampa. The properties upon which tax deed action must be taken are those for which NMID tax assessments have not been paid in the years 2008 through 2010.

County Assessor records show the two properties in Ada County have a total assessed value of $276,700 according to Ada County Assessor records. The total due on the two is $847.10. The two Canyon County properties have a total assessed value of $95,500 and the total amount owed is $2,892.52.

The Irrigation District is also cautioning other people who own property inside the District's boundaries to make sure their tax bills are paid to avoid facing similar action.

“We really dislike having to proceed with these tax sales and go to great lengths to avoid these types of tax deed sale situations for our patrons. But state law is very specific about what steps the District is required to take to recover the tax money owed on the property,” said Daren Coon, NMID Secretary Treasurer.

The property owners can avoid their property being sold by paying the taxes due prior to the opening of the bids, according to Coon. Only a couple of properties actually have ended up being sold over the past several years, Coon noted.

A certified letter warning of the pending tax deed action was sent to the property owners in addition to several other written notices. The final warning comes with large advertisements run for three consecutive days in the two local daily newspapers. Although it is not required, NMID officials also typically take the extra step of trying to find and personally notify the property owners.

Coon says the problem sometimes grows out of a mistaken belief by property owners that they do not need to pay the annual assessment because they do not receive or use irrigation water.

“Our experience is that many newcomers mistakenly believe the District’s tax assessment need only be paid if they actually use irrigation water. But that is just not the case. Idaho law specifies that all property owners in the district are to help pay the costs of maintaining the irrigation system, whether they use water or not. In addition some property owners wrongly believe the irrigation tax payment is part of their escrow tax payment being made by the mortgage company” Coon said.

The taxes are used to pay for operation and maintenance of the canals, laterals, drains and dams that make up the District's water delivery system. Levies also are assessed against individual subdivision parcels using pressurized irrigation systems in subdivisions around the valley.

Coon said the tax deed auction represents a miniscule percentage of the more than 37,000 property owners who received annual tax assessment notices. NMID officials stress that individuals who own property inside the District and have questions about their tax assessment payment or the Nampa & Meridian Irrigation District should call the District office at 466-7861.

Residents also can check to see whether their NMID taxes are paid by visiting the District’s web site: www.nmid.org.

NMID delivers irrigation water to 69,000 acres of Treasure Valley land including pressurized irrigation to approximately 15,000 residential and commercial lots including 341 residential subdivisions. For information about the District call 466-7861. Information is also available on its Internet website: www.nmid.org.
